

Are you good with people, good with your hands?

We're looking for friendly, reliable and dedicated jewellery demonstrators, it's easy. You should earn at least £40 for about 2 hours work, helping small groups of customers in their own home to assemble the kits. No need for customers to pay big tuition fees for jewellery making classes or travel to attend a jewellery school. Great for parties aged 8-80, a hen night or girls night in.

This starter kit pack includes 20 sets of jewellery ready to be assembled, complete with 3 sets of pliers, the display case, a ready made sample set (on header board)

We offer a full support service, detailed making up instructions per pack, on line training and hopefully we'll get to meet you as you become part of our team.

This pack costs £90 to get you started, you should easily earn this back by booking just 2 parties – even one often can cover your costs. You can offer your customers ready made stock to buy too, either see our wholesale price list or just order some extra packs in and build up your stock. The designs are always changing and we will send you through newsletters and reorder sheets. As part of the team, we value your opinion and ideas too.

Please email info@milligowns.com to order your starter pack or for further information.
