

Problems accessing the Members pages

If you are using the new Explorer 7 from Microsoft you might get the 'not found' or the 'forbidden' screen. This is due to an additional security setting which disables scripted windows which is the window you normally get to enter your password.

You should get a bar at the top of the screen which gives you the option of temporarily allowing scripted windows. If you click this and allow it, then use the back arrow and try it again it should work as normal (fingers crossed). This is a once only use and will need to be done again if you go back to put in your password at a later date.

To permanently allow scripted windows (your decision totally) go to Tools / Internet Options / Security / Click 'Custom Levels' / Scroll down to 'Allow websites to prompt for information using scripted windows' / Click 'Enable' / Click 'OK' / Accept the change for this setting by clicking the 'Yes' button / Click 'OK'.

The problem of scripted windows should not now occur but be aware you will have adjusted your security settings.

Any more problems please let me know

Bob