

TWITCHING THROUGH THE SWAMP

Twitcher in the Swamp (aka Peter Marren) has, for over 14 years, provided an alternative and satirical perspective of British wildlife and of the antics of nature conservationists and environmental organisations. This new book is the first collection of Twitcher's musings, accompanied by cartoons drawn by David Carstairs, originally published in bi-monthly editions of British Wildlife. Also included are previously unpublished cartoons and other notes on the natural world, from the (now defunct) Nature Conservancy Council's staff magazine Natural Selection.

Twitcher is the "Private Eye" of the nature conservation world. Buy it now to read about ticking an icky, Tod the Toad (alas, not streetwise enough), LACBOB (the League Against Cruel Bullies of Our Bunnies) or for a lurid description of how a spotty youth carried out an unspeakable act on the Prussian Woundwort.

"Peter Marren's swamp is the corporate idiocies and joyless Newspeak of the conservation establishment. His twitching is more of an impish war-dance – elegant, cheeky, wryly wise and wonderfully funny."
